Six persons were killed today when a westbound troop train collided with an east-bound transcontinental train on the mainline of the Canadian National Railways, 83 miles west of Jasper.

A few passengers on the transcontinental train received "slight injuries," he said.

One of the known injured is Patrick Joseph McElroy, 1968-210, who was a brakeman on the ill-fated No. 2 east-bound passenger train.

Hospital trains with doctors and nurses aboard are en route from Kamloops, B.C., and Jasper.

The head-on crash occurred at 12:30 p.m. near Canoe River.

Mr. Skelting said "a number" of troops were injured.

Word of the crash was received at 10:30 a.m.

A makeshift hospital train containing an engine and two coaches staffed with doctors and all available nurses was immediately dispatched to the scene of the disaster.

C.N.R. officials also sent a work train out of Jasper a half-hour later to clear the rails for east and west traffic.

The units of the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery were bound for Korean brigade training when the accident occurred.

The passenger train was No. 2, due in Edmonton at 8:30 tonight.

A C.N.R. spokesman here said that the engineer and fireman on each locomotive are missing.

2 In Forced Landing Are Safe On Lake

A Royal Canadian Air Force aircraft equipped with a parachute landing gear, left before dawn today to rescue two Americans who survived a forced landing in their light aircraft on an ice-coated northern Alberta lake.

Within an hour after their single-engine Stinson aircraft was reported overdue last night, a search crew spotted the two men beside their downed plane on Isogen Lake, 90 miles south of Grande Prairie. They signalled the searchers with flashlights that they were uninjured.

The search crew also reported the yellow-colored Stinson was standing upright on the shore of the lake and appeared undamaged.

Aboard the plane were Harry Adams, of Renton, Wash., the pilot, and Arthur Fox, of Kinal, Alaska, partner-owner of the Stinson. They were en route to Anaktuvuk Pass, Alaska.

Jasper Place Now Wants Miracle Mile

Town of Jasper Place wants to be the site of the "Miracle Mile" municipal centre that Edmonton turned down.

Mayor J. M. Stone said today he had conferred with Stanley H. McCuaig, Edmonton lawyer associated with the "Dewitler Miracle Mile" proposal for Edmonton.

A letter had been sent to the corporation following the conference, he said, asking if it had "anything to offer that would be of benefit to Jasper Place."

Mayor Stone said the letter described the location and population of Jasper Place and gave a "rough estimate of the expected assessment in the town next year."

"I suppose any proposal would be similar to the one made in Edmonton, on a smaller scale," he stated.

The mayor said he had been thinking about taking to the Edmonton corporation before the Edmonton city centre plan was defeated.

Jasper Place's two councillors reacted favorably to the proposal, he said today, adding the town was interested in other projects besides "centres."

"One thing I have in mind is financing of water and sewage systems for Jasper Place," he said.

Edmontonian Twice Winner With Clydesdales

TORONTO, Nov. 21.—(AP)—The entry of W. A. Smith of Carberry, Man., placed first and entry of Smith of Carberry, Man., placed first and entry of Smith of Carberry, Man., placed first.

The trio owned by Mrs. Kate Bryer Taylor of Arrols, Sask., was third.

William MacDonald of Edmonton led a first-place entry in the class for two animals three years or under in his Calgary's choice was second in the class for brood mares.

Lawrence Kenney, town police chief, carried the victims to safety.

Mr. and Mrs. Goyen were taken to hospital by Smith's Ambulance and treated for gas poisoning. They are reported in "satisfactory" condition. The two children, last seen about 7:30 p.m., are reported to be in Mrs. Swan's home.

Northwestern Utilities General Manager D. K. Yorath said today that a preliminary investigation by the company indicated that the fumes which threatened the Goyens came from a gas circuit breaker operating at double its capacity.

He said that the Goyens had complained about gas fumes on Nov. 19 and that the company had advised them then to clean out vent pipes leading to the heater.

This was apparently done, said Mr. Yorath, but the overload on the heater caused excess fumes this morning.

Farmer Shoots Self After Signing Will

A 60-year-old farmer shot his wife twice with a shotgun, forced his terrified son to write a will and then turned the gun on himself in his farm kitchen near Ryley Monday night.

The double tragedy, described as murder-suicide by R.C.M.P., took place at the farm home of William Bonevitch following a family quarrel.

Dead are: William Bonevitch, 60; Rosie Bonevitch, 45.

Police said the double slaying took place at 6:40 p.m. Johnny, 16-year-old son of the dead couple and sole witness to the tragedy, said that his parents had been arguing. Rosie Bonevitch said she was going to leave her husband and in a rage he grabbed up a 12-gauge shotgun and shot her twice.

He then forced Johnny to write a suicide note.

"I shot her because she was going to leave me. I leave my insurance and my farm to my son Steve."

Bonevitch then signed the note. Johnny then ran from the kitchen and reentered from the farm to the town of Ryley, 48 miles south-east of Edmonton. As he bolted down the road, he heard two more shotgun blasts, believed by police to have killed William Bonevitch.

First word of the slaying came when the youth rushed into the R.C.M.P. office at Ryley. Accompanied by Corporal Richard Macleod, Dr. Dan Selgel of Holden, Mayor John Kordich of Ryley and A. R. Anderson, he returned back to the small farmhouse.

When they entered the yard, they found a trail of blood stains in the snow. These led from the house in a winding path to a small milk shed—50 feet distant—and back inside the house.

Entering the kitchen, they found William Bonevitch lying in a pool of blood in a bedroom. Rosie Bonevitch was found on the floor. She was suffering from a charge through the chest near the heart and another in the side.

She was still conscious and was muttering in Ukrainian. Dr. Selgel made a preliminary examination and the woman died an hour later at 9:45 p.m.

Her husband, at first thought to be dead, was found standing by the stove when the group re-entered the kitchen.

Dr. W. H. Freebairn of Tofield and nurses were summoned. He was taken to Royal Alexandra Hospital by Smith's Ambulance, was admitted at 11:15 p.m., and died at 11:45 p.m.

The body of Mrs. Bonevitch was taken to a funeral home. Her husband's body was later removed to the funeral home.

Dr. M. N. Cantor, provincial coroner, viewed the bodies early today. He said the slaying was a murder-suicide.

Residence on John, the dead couple are survived by another son, Steve, 20, a coal mine employee near Ryley, and two daughters, and a son-in-law, Florence Deagle, Beach Comber, Mrs. Margaret Mattison and Alex, both of Edmonton.

Funeral arrangements are pending.

Cougars Threaten 'Rocky' Outskirts

Hunting Parties Organized As Skaters Abandon Lake

Fear grips the western Alberta town of Rocky Mountain House as cougars, abandoning their dens high up in the mountains, prowl to the very edge of the community. Residents of Rocky report half a dozen sightings of the big cats lurking in trees that fringe the main highway between Rocky Mountain House and Nipawin.

Panicked parents have forbidden their children to skate at Mud Lake, a mile east of the town, where two skating couples were seen on Sunday.

Volunteer parties are being made up by townspeople to track and shoot down the animals.

An increase in the present $15 cougar bounty is being advocated by the townspeople of Rocky, in an effort to attract experienced trappers to the volunteer hunting parties.

The menace marks the climax of the cougars' migration, over the past ten years, from their dens high in the Rocky Mountains towards Rocky Mountain House.

"We've known they were coming closer and closer every year," said Mrs. C. M. Elliott, "but this is the first time they've come right up to the farm and to the town."

The animals show little or no fear of humans.

On Monday, passing motorists buried sticks and stones at one of the big cats as he perched in a tree on the Rensselaer main road, 15 miles south of Rocky, without moving him.

"The cougar just seemed to sense that one had a gun," one of the motorists recalled.

The cougar threat has driven Rocky Mountain House youngsters from their favorite skating rink, Mud Lake, a mile from town.

Two cougars were seen near the lake on Sunday, and parents are fearful that these two animals—and more which may lurk in the woods—may attack the children.

TRANSLATION BRINGS ICELAND LOVE TALES

Tales of the feuds and loves of Scandinavian settlers on Iceland 800 years ago have been translated and retold in a book of "Icelandic Sagas" by professors at the University of Alberta and New York University.

Translated by Dr. M. H. Scragg, assistant professor of English at U of A and Margaret Schlauch, professor of English at New York University, the text has been illustrated with a series of pen drawings by H. G. Glavin, professor of fine arts at the U of A.

While serving as interpreter with the British YMCA services in Iceland for four years during World War II, Dr. Scragg became interested in the early sagas of the island.

The stories were contained in a group of fourteenth and fifteenth century manuscripts in Icelandic collected by Danish and Icelandic scholars. They are believed to have passed by word of mouth from generation to generation from the beginning of the eleventh century.

The first of the three sagas, translated by Prof. Scragg, tells the story of the early Icelandic settlers in the Borgarfjord district of the island.

Second two groups of tales, translated by Prof. Schlauch, is a group of stories on the feuds and conflicts among the people of the island.

A 1940 graduate of England's University of Leeds, Dr. Scragg came to U of A in 1948. Prof. Glavin, an associate of the Royal College of Arts in London came here in 1946.

The book, "Icelandic Sagas," is available at the University of Alberta Bookstore, 1000-1002 St. James St. W.

Trucks Compete On Cattle Hauls

High Short-Trip Railway Rates Said Inviting Competition

CALGARY, Nov. 21.—(CP)—The railway freight rates for cattle on short hauls are so high at present that they appear to invite truck competition, Kenneth R. Cuppock, Calgary, secretary of the Western Stock Growers' Association, and the western section, National Council of Canadian Beef Producers, told the Board of Transportation Commissioners sitting here yesterday.

The commissioners are here today to hear applications from western Canadian livestock men to have the applications of the Railway Association of Canada for an increase on rates for cattle dismissed. The railways' application has been granted but was suspended to allow those opposing the increase to make representations to the board.

Mr. Cuppock said that even on long haul export movements trucking was making a strong appeal to many shippers.

More than 50 per cent of deliveries at western terminals were being made by trucks due to speed of delivery, causing less loss of weight among cattle, and high railway freight rates.

"It would be a mistake to base freight rates on cattle on the present high price level," Mr. Cuppock said, adding that from the subsidies also made by the railways he assumed they were asking for an increase because of the current high livestock prices.

DROP COMING

"At the present time cattle prices are the highest in the history of the industry but past history leads one to the inescapable conclusion that, barring inflationary fiscal policies by the government, present high prices will not be maintained."

Farm Group Protests Removal of 52 Quotas

SASKATOON, Nov. 21.—(CP)—The Saskatchewan Farmers Union yesterday asked the Canadian Wheat Board not to increase grain delivery quotas anywhere until all farmers have had a chance to deliver their first quota.

(Board headquarters in Winning yesterday removed wheat delivery quotas from 51 shipping points in Manitoba and 21 in Saskatchewan. Similar relaxation of quotas has been announced for numerous other prairie points in the last few weeks.)

J. L. Phelps, president of the

Mr. Phelps said his own delivery point of Thackeray is typical of the situation in Saskatchewan. Located on the C.N.R. seven miles south of Wilkie, had had an open quota for a month. But just a few miles away on the C.P.R. many farmers had been unable to deliver first quota because of the car shortage.

The SFU also asked that the Wheat Board grant special delivery permits to farmers who have extremely tough or damp grain.

Mr. Phelps suggested that farmers living near C.P.R. points be allowed to deliver their initial eight-bushel-an-acre quota to points on other lines where cars are available.

Mr. Cuppock suggested that freight rates for cattle be based on a fluctuating scale, rather than being rigid as at present.

Reviewing the application of the railways for an increase in rates, N. D. M. Spencer, Montreal, counsel for the CPR, said that in 1931 the railways had voluntarily decreased cattle rates below the normal level in order to aid the livestock industry. Since that period when this aid was necessary was now ended, the railways wished to bring the rates up to the level they would now be, had they not been depressed 30 years ago.

EDMONTON BULLETIN, Tuesday, Nov. 21, 1950

Rights Are Argued In Gas Claim Action

CALGARY, Nov. 21.—(CP)—H. V. O'Connor, Calgary barrister who has drafted oil lease. In Alberta since 1930, told Chief Justice W. R. Howson in Supreme Court here yesterday that he had never seen a lease dealing with petroleum rights alone. The leases stipulated petroleum and natural gas rights.

He was giving evidence in an action brought by Michael Henry Leduc farmer, who is claiming the natural gas on his 160-acre farm. He is opposed by Imperial Oil Limited and the CPR who claim they are entitled to gas rights, as well as to oil and natural gas rights.

One of the points in issue is the definition of "petroleum rights" as allegedly reserved to the CPR in the sale of the land to Henry by the CPR. Henry alleges that petroleum rights covered only crude oil rights and that he is entitled to gas rights. Mr. O'Connor defined petroleum as "liquid oil or crude oil produced in the earth." Dr. A. W. Nasse, Calgary geologist, said "petroleum substances" was the wide term used for all and those substances connected with it but the word "petroleum" was used subjectively in this usage.

However the word petroleum was "more frequently" used in its narrower sense to mean oil.

Dr. Nasse gave the American Gas Association definition of petroleum as "a complex mixture of various hydrocarbons existing as a liquid in the upper strata of the earth."

Twelve-Year Jinx Broken at Fair

Canada Wins Horse-Jumping To Take International Honors

TORONTO, Nov. 21.—(CP)—Yesterday was a big day at the Royal Winter Fair.

Canada broke a 12-year jinx and won an international horse-jumping competition. An Ontario breeder sold an Aberdeen Angus bull for the biggest price for a bull of this breed in Canadian history. The historic King's Guinea baby-beef campaign was named.

Choice of No-Trump Or Suit Isn't Easy

By Oswald Jacoby

It is often difficult, even for experts, to choose between game at no-trump and game in a major suit. The problem can be illustrated by a hand that was dealt in this summer's national championships, held at Columbus.

Most South players felt compelled to open with no-trump rather than attempt to bid both spades and hearts. It is dangerous to indicate a two-suited hand when both suits are four-carders, particularly when the hand appears perfectly well adapted to play at no-trump.

Most North players decided that game at no-trump was highly probable and that there was no point in warning the opening leader to stay away from diamonds. Hence they jumped right to three no-trump.

However, nobody felt happy about being in three no-trump except a club opening lead. South had to take his king of clubs and then find nine tricks on the run. Fortunately the heart disease worked. This was small consolation to the tournament players, because they knew that anybody who played the hand at hearts would make 11 tricks, for a much better score.

Even rubber bridge players, who would be satisfied to make three no-trump, should prefer to play such hands at game in the major suit. Game can be made even if both red kings are badly placed (and even if the king of clubs is also offside). Game at no-trump will go down if the king of hearts is offside (barring miracles).

In the summer championships a few expert pairs reached the best game contract even after opening the hand with one no-trump. North responded two clubs—using the Bickman Convention. (Samuel Stayman and George Rapee, of New York, who first developed the convention, will be on the team that represents the United States in an international team-of-four match that is scheduled to take place in Bermuda early in November.)

North's response of two clubs does not show a real club suit. It asks South to allow a major suit if he has one. South bids two spades, and North may bid two no-trump or three diamonds. In either case, South then bids three

And then there were more than the fair's usual quota of grand champions named, with Short-horn, Hertsford, Aberdeen Angus and dual-purpose Shorthorn cattle getting the call.

Tom Gayford, 19-year-old Toronto advertising salesman, rode his light chestnut gelding, Nova Scotia, to victory in a jump-off with Arthur McCaslin, of the United States, on Palestine, a strawberry roan.

GAYFORD LOSES

Canada's equestrian showing at the fair now includes a first, a second—Gayford lost out to Mexico in a jump-off with Arthur McCaslin, of the United States, on Palestine, a strawberry roan.

A better-than-average showing, it is expected to lend impetus to the drive of the team's non-riding captain, Maj.-Gen. Churchill Mann, that Canada should be represented for the first time at the 1952 Olympics with a horse-jumping team.

The Edwards brothers, of Watford, Ont., made livestock history when their bull Anokamere 10th, was sold to Mervyn Farms of St. Francisville, La., for $8,300. The bull placed first in his class yesterday for bulls two years and over.

Alex. McInosh of Guelph, Ont., won the 50 guinea—which were presented to him by Gov.-Gen. Alexander—for the best baby-beef ever raised by 5,000 calf c/b numbers in Ontario.

WINS GUINEAS

Andy, the Aberdeen Angus steer which won the guinea for 17-year-old Alex, was chosen best of about 200 Aberdeen Angus. Hereford and Shorthorn steers. A Shorthorn exhibited by 16-year-old Judy Merry, a pretty blonde from Oakville, Ont., was second.

The prize King's guinea steer in the past has brought as high as $13,000 in sale at auction during the fair.

W. A. Crawford-Frost of Nanaimo, Alta., and the Richardson Stock Farm of Winnipeg kept Ontario breeders and exhibitors from Illinois and Michigan from having all the grand champion and runner-up prizes.

hearts, showing his other major suit. North then naturally goes to four hearts, having found the fit he was looking for.

It will be interesting to watch the progress of the international match in Bermuda to see if this convention helps the American team.

More Rigid Regulations To Control Town Building

LACOMBE, Nov. 21.—Only fire proof and fire-resistant buildings will be constructed in the business area of Lacombe, town council decided last week.

In amending a former bylaw, the council decided to enforce more rigid control over buildings erected in this growing town.

Also at the council meeting, announcement was made on progress in constructing the new rink. A caretaker will be named to take care of the rink during the winter.

COUNTER EQUIPMENT

Necessary lunch counter equipment will be ordered, with the Memorial Recreation Centre board given full authority to operate the concession at the rink on a percentage basis with the town.

Non-Royalist Canadian Arouses Much Protest

DAWSON CREEK, B.C., Nov. 21.—Richard Baycroft, whose refusal to swear an oath required of municipal employees of allegiance to the king, because there was no mention of Canada, said "he hadn't realized he touched off such an issue."

The 30-year-old ex-student official, just returned from a 400-mile trucking job down the Alaska Highway and was confused at the publicity arising from his decision.

Congratulatory wires and inquiries arriving in Dawson Creek while the man was out of town resulted in an orgy of questioning and arguments in this 4,000 population town.

FOUND STATUTE
It was Baycroft himself, pouring over the statutes to familiarize himself with his new job, who found that all municipal employees were required to swear an oath of office. He requested the village clerk, newly installed in office, to bring the matter to the attention of the board of commissioners.

In his letter of protest to the board over his dismissal, he wrote: "I will not swear allegiance to any power outside my country. I will, however, swear allegiance to the Canadian Government and to Canadian authority in any way or form desired."

Cold and Clear

What was that Indian's name who predicted a "long MILD winter?"

Things are getting back to normal. People are starting to worry about the Flyers losing to Calgary again.

Cold weather nonsense! Supreme test of self control: If you stand on a corner and watch four jam-packed buses whizz by and not even swear under your breath. Let in the world did I put those green ear muffs?

Let the Russians take credit for inventing 50 below zero.

Snappy new sign: On the new Mandarin Garden Chop Suey Parlor at 9855 Jasper Avenue, Gaily painted, gaily lusted Chinese dragon sticks out tongue at folks all through the night.

Free tip: When that dragon starts chomping you down Jasper fill out an application for membership in Alcoholics Anonymous.

The Vancouver Sun is going to keep police dogs to look for lost persons.

Not a bad idea. Now any reporter who gets scooped will have a nice handy doghouse to crawl into.

Elegant Elsie says she's not a bit surprised because she has known newspapermen who seemed to be going to the dogs.

I've got some advice for Mr. Cromie of the Vancouver Sun in connection with his dog service: He better not be barking around his pooch's necks like they do in the Swiss Alps.

If he does he may have to employ other bloodhounds to find some of his loyal staff members.

At any rate the dog watch is going to have new significance around the Vancouver Sun.

Gordon Donovan, assistant advertising manager of the new Bulletin lives at 10722-86 avenue. That's a long way from Jasper Avenue. That's why Donovan needs a telephone. Please see what you can do for Mr. Donovan, Messrs Bob Christie and Jim McCoil.

Note to Ken Kramer of 11128-99 avenue: Thanks ever so much Ken for your nice boost. I show all such letters to my boss when salary matters are under discussion.

That apud Bill Williams at Sunday's Legion meeting to give old overcoats to war vet pensioners made me feel kind of sad.

I've been covering Legion meetings for a good many years. Every year there are fewer of the old faces in the Memorial Hall.

I keep thinking back to when I was a kid in 1914-15-16. I saw all those guys march away. It seems a great shame indeed that the fellow who hurled back the Hun at Ypres, inched ahead in the bloodbath of the Somme and swept to victory on hallowed Vimy Ridge should be shivering on the streets of old-prosperous Edmonton in 1960.

I don't think this appeal for coats and other old clothing is one that should be confined to war veterans. Let's all load up with surplus clothing and pack it over to Bill Williams at the Memorial Hall. He'll really appreciate your help.

A warm goodnight to all and especially to people who are cold.

$100,000 Door Factory Slated in Jasper Place

A $100,000 cash and door factory will be built by Imperial Lumber Co. Ltd. in rapidly-expanding Jasper Place in the near future.

This was announced last night at the weekly meeting of the Jasper Place Council. The west-end community, with a population of over 8,000 people, became a town on Nov. 15.

The lumber firm has advised it will build the plant between 154 street and 155 street on the north side of Jasper Place highway.

Council decided to postpone construction of a new $80,000 fire hall and garage until next year, because of present problems caused by the winter freeze-up.

The council voted to send a delegation before the Department of Economic Affairs to discuss ways and means of financing water and sewage in Jasper Place.

Oil Is Oil, Gas Is Gas Supreme Court Rules

A specialist in the English language and a geologist agreed in supreme court at Calgary yesterday that petroleum is petroleum and gas is gas.

Dr. Olive M. Fisher, former member of the faculty of Education at the University of Alberta, and Stanley J. Oppen, prominent geologist, were giving evidence on behalf of Michael Barry, Leduc farmer. Barry claims the natural gas on his 160-acre farm. He is opposed by Imperial Oil Limited and the CMA, who claim they hold both crude oil and natural gas rights. Mr. Simpson said both gas and

New Bus Routes Are Protested

BITTER PROTESTS are being voiced over changes in four ETS motor bus routes on South Side. Residents served by Ritchie, Bonnie Doon, McKernan Lake, Calgary Trail lines say changes have worsened service. Bonnie Doon customers Mrs. V. R. Spear, 8607-85 avenue; Mrs. F. R. Hamm, 9537 Donnell road; Mrs. A. E. Tydale, 9555 Donnell road, waiting for bus, claim 15-minute service can't be depended on.

RITCHIE RESIDENTS aren't getting square with changes in new bus routes. Joe Gibson, 9315 74 avenue, declares. They face winter with half-hour service, except for rush periods, he says. Before changes, districts had 15-minute service. Gibson says Ritchie residents were promised when they settled in district that bus service wouldn't be changed.

South Side Bus Changes Found Highly Unpopular

By BARNEY MCKINLEY

The estimated 3,000 families in the South Side's Ritchie district want to know why they have been deprived of the bus service they were promised was "permanent" when they settled in the area. Now one of the most populous areas in Edmonton, the district has suddenly had its bus service curtailed, residents claim, by changes in bus route and schedule that went into effect Nov. 12. Three other southerly motor bus routes were altered at the same time.

SERVICE WORSE

The Ritchie residents claim they are facing the winter with half-hour bus service, except for rush hours, where they once had 15 minute service. Some 25 families on the "far" side of Mill Creek have been cut out of service altogether, they claim. They demanded a definite schedule—and a better one.

The group on the "wrong side of the ravine" will have to walk five or six blocks through "a complete quagmire" to catch a bus, they pointed out, and school children and women don't like the idea of doing it at night.

"The people are complaining about the bus not going through Mill Creek Ravine, though there's a road paved for it," J. Jackson, 9720 85 avenue, said.

"We think the Ritchie bus should be routed from 99 street and 82 avenue to 83 street, then south to 76 avenue and back west to 99 street again," he said. "That way it could serve properly the 1,000 families in Ritchie and also take in people in King Edward park area."

MANY CHILDREN

"There are streets in our district with as many as 27 kids in one block. And if they don't catch the bus at 82 avenue and 99 street on their way home they are faced with as much as mile and a half walk or a 25 minute wait for next transportation."

Jackson's opinion was backed by a number of other spokesmen in the district, including veteran Joe Gibson, 9315 74 avenue. "They're giving us low service instead of more," he said. "When you change a bus route or schedule it's supposed to improve conditions, not work the other way."

Jackson said the delegation, picked up by the "Biggest Ritchie community league" history, had been refused an audience with the city council.

OTHER PROTESTS

Protests were also mounting rapidly from residents served by the other bus routes under ETS. J. D. Gering, 7206-105A street, put the case for Calgary Trail bus customers.

"There are more people in the morning and evening than the present bus service can handle," he said. "Many get left behind and have to walk all the way to 82 avenue. It's not very pleasant."

The only solution is to give Parkland district its own bus down to 63 avenue at least," he said. "I never'll be able to handle traffic satisfactorily with present setup no matter how many buses they use in rush hours."

Complaints were also being heard on the McKernan Lake line which extends bus service into the picturesque district.

BONNIE DOON

Bonnie Doon bus route customers have probably been the least valuable over the recent changes. But they weren't giving the ETS any pain on the back either.

"We were promised 15 minute service," a group shivering at hilltop bus stop reported yesterday. "But you can't depend on it."

Strong opposition to the new routes is being voiced at a number of meetings also by the South Edmonton Businessmen's Association. Its members feel that it is now difficult for people to shop in the nearby shopping centre.

Air Reserve Expansion Announced

Western Units To Be Boosted to 16

Canada's air force reserve forces are to be greatly expanded.

Air Vice-Marshal G. R. Dunlop, air officer commanding RCAF, disclosed at a press conference yesterday that the western Canada RCAF reserve units would be increased from five to 16 within the next two years.

There will be a similar increase in eastern Canada commands.

NEW FORMATION
In the past all reserve training was concentrated on flying squadrons, but the new scheme will feature formation of air control and warning (radar), technical training and medical units plus reserve wing headquarters at three western Canadian bases.

The new expansion program came as a result of last week's Reserve Commanding officer's conference and the nation's current efforts to increase its military defenses.

The plans placed North West Air Command in the market for 100 additional reservists.

The new recruits will receive the same attention as active force men, said the RCAF chief, "and it is intended to obtain them as soon as possible."

"The RCAF is interested in young men along with the former RCAF personnel, but our best source of material comes from the Air Cadet ranks."

MECHANICAL
The new establishments include air control and warning units for Vancouver, Winnipeg, Calgary and (possibly) Victoria; technical training units for Vancouver, and in operation at Edmonton and Winnipeg; and medical units for Vancouver, Edmonton and Calgary.

The Edmonton Medical unit will be headed by Dr. D. R. Easton, superintendent of Royal Alexandra Hospital, who has been given the rank of Wing Commander.

The reserve wing headquarters which will act as nerve center for reserve operations, will be established at Edmonton, Winnipeg and Vancouver.

The radar air control and warning units work in conjunction with active squadrons which are based at Vancouver, Winnipeg and Calgary. Edmonton and Saskatoon are high bomber squadrons.

It was also announced at the press conference that the reserve summer camp, held the first two weeks in July, will be based at Rivers, Man., this summer.

Lingerie Gift Hopes High This Christmas

By Bea Thrifty

Lingerie lovelies, frothy with lace, will set many a feminine heart a flutter this merry Yuletide.

This Christmas of '50 we have a greater variety, style and quality of unmentionables pretties from which to choose our gifts.

My problem with lingerie gift-buying is . . . I want to buy everything for myself instead of giving it all away.

But there's one potential tree-topper I'd gladly give away and that's a warm, wooly petticoat.

Much as I dislike them, I will admit they're the answer to chilly problems of a farm woman, or a gal who needs must do a lot of winter walking.

They have shoulder straps at least two inches wide, come in shades of tan or blue and sell for about $4.95 each.

I know half a dozen grannies who yearn for more tropical climes . . . who'd say a hearty thank you for the woolen underslips.

From practical woollens let's have a frivolous peek at some satin 'n' lace lovelies.

Today I saw matched camisole and half-slip sets in black, white or tan and selling at $4.95.

These fit snugly and smoothly at waistline . . . may be mixed 'n' matched with two-color frocks. Yards of matching lace make the pretties most elegant looking indeed.

Galaxy of colors are ripe and lush in lingerie this season of '50 and slips are available in Kelly green, scarlet, navy blue, black, cocoa-tan, brown and paler shades of course.

With lacey fabrics winning honors for dress-up occasions . . . milady needs must be careful of the color of her upholstery.

The pretty colored jobs sell at prices ranging from $1.95 to $6.50 . . . and I must say I am personally partial to a $4.95 navy blue job.

Bored gift sets of slips and matching panties are pretty and handy to parcel-pack. Slips come in pastels, black or white and feature smooth fit, finished seams and lace trimming.

Slips sell at $3.95 and matching fancy panties at $1.50 and $1.95. With assortment of plain or elegant unmentionables available in all shades from teal blue to twilight purple and black again . . . there's not really a gift problem.

Prices start at 50¢ for gift potentials and work upward to the $3.95 bracket.

Watch for feather-stitched, flat-seamed or at least pinked seams when you're buying lingerie.

Many inexpensive brand-slips have finished seams . . . and you know what a measure of difference in wearing time this makes.

Another check in rush of gift-buying is sock-marks from price tags, rubbing or counter badgering . . . check and see you have a first-rate buy.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

Let's Serve Cheer To Children With Meals

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

Daily Reader wants me to write something in the column about scolding children in loud voices at every meal because they won't eat.

"Isn't there some way this can be corrected?" she asks.

No until the parents themselves want to do so. They should be aware that the emotional atmosphere at the table is conducive or inimical to a good appetite. Scolding children puts them in no mood to enjoy their meals. If the parents want to inspire better appetites, they should set the stage for a pleasant get-together instead of making mealtimes an opportunity for a display of disagreeable emotions. It is up to them.

Our leaflet No. 69, "Selfishness and Jealousy," may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope, with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

Miss Catherine McGrath is in charge of arrangements, program will be under direction of Miss Nora Reed, assisted by Mrs. Mrs. J. J. Buckley and Miss Jennie Bailey.

(Actress Janis Carter appearing in Columbia's "Woman of Distinction") ARE YOU IN A RUT? You may find some of the glamour and excitement you imagine Actress Janis Carter has found. Maybe such a simple thing as a hairdo like hers will relieve your boredom.

WHY GROW OLD

Bored? Gather Courage To Get Out of Rut

By Josephine Lowman

It is difficult to know when one is in a rut. Ruts may be boring, but they ARE secure.

You can peep over the edge of a rut you are lying in, and if something comes zooming toward your head, you can duck. Once out in the great open spaces, you have to take your chances. You wonder, when in a rut, "Is it worth the security?" "Am I crazy? That grass over there looks greener than this." "Do I dare start a new career at my age?" "Am I being eccentric or am I taking advantage of a big opportunity?" (Is this love or just habit?)

Only good thing about a rut is you know the worst about it! You know its faults and boring characteristics. Nevertheless, too many persons live in ruts all of their lives because of the fear of the unknown, and a lack of self-confidence!

USC Director Makes Plea For Overseas Christmas

"We need $25,000 by Dec. 1. It will be Canada's Christmas gift to freezing children in Europe," said Dr. Lotta Hiltzmanova, director of the Unitarian Service Committee, in an interview here.

Dr. Hiltzmanova has just returned from a three months' trip to Europe, covering seven countries.

Now on a speaking tour of western Canada, Dr. Hiltzmanova has organized a "dinner drive" she is asking for 12,000 dinners.

She has organized penny parties in schools to buy navy beans, macaroni and lard for students in Greece.

Homes for orphan children have been established in France, Australia, Italy and Greece. Here they are given clothing and three meals a day and taught a practical trade or craft.

FUNDS FOR LIMBS

USC is appealing for help for mutilated children. Artificial limbs cost $150, and there isn't enough money for food, said Dr. Hiltzmanova.

Alberta Women's Institutes have been working with the USC. In the last three years they have shipped 25,000 pounds of new and used clothing, blankets, and linens and collected $15,000 to outfit ten children with artificial limbs.

UTENSILS NEEDED

Cooking utensils are non-existent in Greece. Cutlery and 2,000 pots and pans have been sent overseas to ease the situation.

Dr. Hiltzmanova asks that "at Christmas time, every father and mother think of their own children and then give to the USC for Europe's children."

Uncle Wiggily's Bedtime Story

Buster Longears the rabbit scout was a very and little bunny boy because his dad had disappeared. He could not find it. Nor could any of the other boys who had been cooing with Buster on Big Hill. "This is a mystery," barked Jackie Bow. "We ought to be callin' the police dog."

"I'll surely be very queer," chattered Jackie Bustard the again. "One minute Buster is riding his sled down hill. The next minute his sled is gone."

"And between those two minutes," quacked Jamie Whitebrow, the duck, "between those two minutes Buster's sled hit a chunk of ice half way down the hill. And the sled bounced high up in the air."

"That's just what happened," said Buster as he again looked all around for his sled. "I went up in the air, too. I came down, but my sled didn't come down. Where is it?"

"Maybe, Buster," said Bunt. "To-morrow night, maybe your sled turned into a flying rug like that Uncle Wiggily had a ride on one day."

"No, Buster. I don't believe that happened," said Buster. "There was no jelly Genie nor fairy here change my sled into a flying rug sled."

"Then what do you think happened?" asked Bunt. "Maybe your sled just floated off the side of the hill into a deep drift of snow."

Buster, Bunt and all the other animal boys and girls stopped their coasting fun to look once more for Buster's missing sled. But they couldn't find it.

"Oh, dear!" said Buster again.

"I'll lend you half of my sled," kindly offered Billie the goat. "You can coast down hill with me on my sled."

"Thank you, Billie," answered Buster. "But your sled is small. If we both tried to coast it, it's up of us would fall off. I am going home and ask my daddy to come to the hill to look for the sled."

"I guess we had better all go home," said Jackie Bow Wow. "It is getting late and we are going to have some soup for supper. I don't want to miss that. Let's all go home."

All the boys and girls left the coasting hill. All but Buster were dragging sleds behind them like the sled of Mary's little lamb. Buster had no sled to pull after him.

"Oh, dear!" said the rabbit scout again.

"Never mind," said Bunt. "To-morrow when the sun is up and it is not so dark, I will come to the hill and look for your sled."

"Thank-you-thank you," said Buster. He couldn't say any more. He was really crying. Almost but not quite for he was a rabbit scout. "I think," said Bunt as they reached Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump lungalow. "I think I shall have good luck and find your sled."

"I'll trust I hope so," said Buster sadly.

Just then sounded a loud noise in the lungalow. I will tell you about it tomorrow, also more about Buster's good luck if the potato patcher will please stop jumping up and down inside the coffee pot instead of breaking eggs for a lemon pie.
